DETAILED ACTION

Inventorship

1. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Dixon (US 2003/0075121)

Dixon teaches a method of controlling an internal combustion engine comprising the steps of compressing the gases within the prechamber 20 using the prechamber piston to cause auto-ignition in the prechamber, the auto-ignition in the prechamber producing hot gas jets and inducing auto-ignition in the cylinder 30 by introducing the hot gas jets from the prechamber 20 into the cylinder 30.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 8-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dixon (US 2003/0075121) in view of Kawamura (5,826,558).

Dixon teaches a homogeneous combustion jet ignition in an internal combustion engine comprising a prechamber 20 coupled to the cylinder 30 via at least one valve 43 including a prechamber piston 21. Kawamura teaches a control unit 8 receiving data regarding the load and current operating parameters within the cylinder, and control the valve 5 based on the received data. Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ the control unit on the homogeneous charge auto-ignition engine of Dixon as taught by Kawamura in order to achieve efficient combustion of fuel through the precise control of the opening/closing of the control valve.
